- If the owner was charged the interest in an owner invoice, you can cancel the owner invoice in Accounting > Adjustment > Levy Journal. Be aware that if the owner invoice is dated in a previous financial year that has already been adopted, this will change the receivables for that period.
- This is the same process as in the article below except that you select the relevant miscellaneous owner invoice.
- If any funds have been paid against that invoice the funds will automatically be applied to unallocated funds or another levy, as explained on the article.
- Check the owner ledger after cancelling the invoice and, if necessary, reverse the allocation receipt created and re-receipt the funds, allocating as you require.

3. and 4. If the Lot Owner has not yet paid the interest

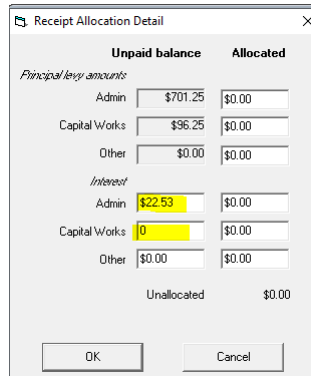

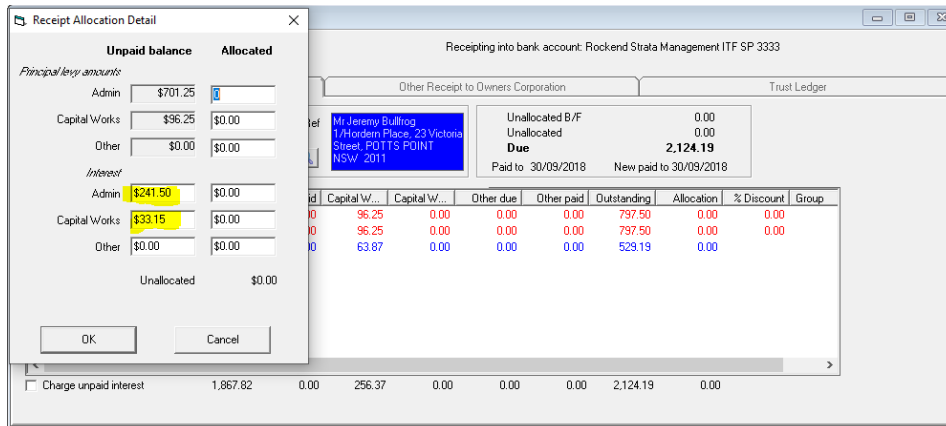

- If the owner has a Levy that you want to forgo interest on but the interest has not yet been paid, then you go to the Levy Journal, found in Accounting Menu > Adjustments, enter Lot Plan details, highlight the relevant levy and tick the button that says 'final interest taken'. This ensures the interest will not be charged on payment.

- Note that where a levy in arrears has had interest charged against it, as a Miscellaneous Owner invoice or levy, setting the Final Interest taken flag will also prevent any further interest being charged. Only the interest on the line that is selected is affected so you may have multiple lines to edit.

- When receipting funds, you can right click on a Levy that shows on the list, a box pops up showing the interest accrued on that levy, and you can edit the amount to zero or any other desired figure. This can only be done when receipting.
